Rusk, Gromyko To Hold Private Meeting Today

Waning Berlin Hopes Kept Alive

GENEVA (AP)—U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko will meet privately today to discuss the Berlin problem, a source close to the negotiations said. The delegates were deadlocked on the subject of the Berlin problem, but they agreed to keep open the lines of negotiation on the stalemate Berlin problem. Their afternoon discussions will take place in the country house of the Soviet villa on the outskirts of Geneva prior to Rusk's planned departure for Washington Tuesday. Each minister will be accompanied by three experts. Rusk thus will have a final opportunity in the context of the current series of Geneva talks to review with Gromyko not only the Berlin problem but also East-West conflicts involved in general disarmament and nuclear test ban negotiations. The American secretary will be accompanied by special assistant Charles E. Bohlen, Assistant Secretary of State for Policy, and Ambassador to Moscow Llewellyn Thompson. Kohler met for two hours Sunday with the Soviet Union's Vladimir S. Semenov to lay the groundwork for Rusk and Gromyko. The diplomatic maneuvering on Berlin took place as the 17-nation disarmament conference entered the third week of its negotiations.

Navy Asks Resignation Of Frondizi

Former Argentine Leader Aramburu Warns Of Civil War

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—The Navy publicly called on President Arturo Frondizi Sunday night to resign immediately as the best solution to Argentina's worst political-military crisis in seven years. Then Army Gen. Pedro Aramburu, venerated leader called out of retirement in an attempt to mediate the crisis, told the 21 million Argentines they face the peril of civil war if the crisis is not solved quickly. He urged a national effort to save the situation and called on opposing forces to end their strife. Aramburu, who played a key role in ousting Peron in 1955, served as provisional president until Frondizi was elected three years later. The navy demands and Aramburu's warning came after Frondizi, fighting desperately to save his four-year regime, patched together a new cabinet he hoped would satisfy his foes. But his efforts appeared to be of no avail. His opponents insisted anew that his resignation is the only way to end the crisis resulting from last week's landslide election victories by followers of exiled dictator Juan D. Peron.

Camel Ride For First Lady

U.S. Estimates Of Russ Missile Strength Cut

WASHINGTON (UPI)—U. S. intelligence estimates of Russia's missile strength have been very substantially reduced, Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara said in congressional testimony made public Sunday. The secretary's comments, which added a new chapter to the old controversy about missile gaps, were made in January before the Senate Armed Services Committee. McNamara did not say how many intercontinental missiles Russia has ready for firing. But his statement lent support to speculation that the Soviets may have as few as 50 to 75 ICBMs ready for launch. The United States now has 54 Atlas ICBMs on launch pads and will have 9 Titans ready next month. It also has 96 shorter range Polaris missiles on subs at sea. McNamara said critics who complained of the "missile gap" in 1960 and in the election campaign did so "in good faith." Those critics included President Kennedy. The secretary's comments were prompted by questioning by another such critic, Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., who made clear in a series of questions that he thought the so-called missile gap was both created and eliminated by the Central Intelligence Agency. Symington said the estimate of Russia's ICBM strength has been reduced 95.5 per cent since the 1958-59 period. Without endorsing the Senator's statistics, McNamara said that "the national intelligence estimates have been revised downward, as you have indicated and the revisions downward have been very substantial."

Steel Talks To Resume

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—A resumption of talks between negotiators of the steel industry and the United Steelworkers union is scheduled Monday following a weekend recess.

640 Pennsylvanians Go To Aid Of Ocean City, N. J.

OCEAN CITY, N.J. (AP)—A caravan of Pennsylvanians determined to show the neighborhood spirit of the old days poured into this storm-wrecked coastal town Sunday to help clean away the sand and rebuild its boardwalk. About 640 of them—many with beards being grown for Allentown's bicentennial celebration—brought their shovels and their lunches. By midmorning, 29 carpenters were working on the boardwalk and more than 500 others were shoveling. Another 100 loaded into buses and went to Strathmere, a community about 10 miles down the coast which was damaged heavily by the storm of March 6-7. The Pennsylvanians came from Allentown, Bethlehem, Emmaus, Easton, Catasauqua, Harrisburg, and surrounding communities. "Neighborhood Spirit Caravan" was born about two weeks ago when Charley Zaines, news director of an Allentown radio station—WSAN—commented during a broadcast, "I wonder if people in the Lehigh Valley still have the neighborhood spirit of the old days?" Zaines then suggested the trip to Ocean City. "Before I finished the broadcast, our four trunk telephone lines started jumping," the bearded Zaines said Sunday. "Since then, this has mushroomed." "We have hoped that this project will serve as an example to other communities to help out their neighbors in distress," added the co-chairman of the project, Neil Mullen of Allentown.

Dutch Navy Ship Under Indo Attack

HOLLANDIA, West New Guinea (AP)—The Dutch navy announced that three crewmen were injured Sunday in an Indonesian air attack on a small navy vessel off the extreme western tip of West New Guinea.

A navy spokesman said a bomb from one of the attacking Indonesian airplanes was a near miss. The Dutch vessel with six men aboard remained afloat. The ship was a landing craft personnel regional—LCPR—making a routine patrol near the island of Gag in the Radja Ampat archipelago. The spokesman said probably only one of the Indonesian planes dropped bombs. He called it a "sudden attack without any reason."

The Dutch ship was in the bay of the small island of Gag, which is within the territorial waters of West New Guinea, the spokesman said. Gag is one of the 900 islands in the Radja Ampat archipelago with a total population of 13,000. Residents make a living from copra production, fish and shell fishing. Gag is near territory which the Indonesians infiltrated in 1952. The island has no permanent inhabitants but Papuans call there occasionally.

A navy spokesman at The Hague said, "A new Indonesian infiltration effort, with the aid of an Indonesian schooner, was intercepted yesterday by a Dutch military reconnaissance plane near Etna Bay, off the southwest coast of New Guinea." The spokesman also said reports were received at The Hague that small scale Indonesian infiltration attempts on the island of Waigeo were reported by local residents last week. Waigeo is near Gag. West New Guinea was kept by the Dutch when Indonesia gained independence, but the Indonesians claim it rightfully belongs to them and have been making war talk for months.

French Send Planes Over Algerian City

Army Tanks Move In As Extremists Erect Barricades

ALGIERS, Algeria (AP)—French troops and Secret Army Organization extremists fought Sunday for control of Oran in a savage battle that lasted into the night. The French government warned Algeria's rebellious Europeans to accept peace with the Muslims or face the opposition of the entire world. Infuriated European settlers, desperately opposing Algerian independence, blocked off midtown Oran—Algeria's second city—with makeshift barricades and defied French military police with a hail of bullets from rifles, pistols and submachine guns. The fighting died down, but flared again after two French planes made low passes over the area, firing bursts from heavy machine guns. The French moved army tanks and halftracks near the center of the city. Tracer bullets crisscrossed the night sky as troops and gendarmes raided buildings in the European sector. The secret army first said it was pulling its commandos back to avoid conflict with French draftees, but then the shooting continued. Oran is a major secret army stronghold.

Tank Rolls Over Car

At one point in the day's fighting secret army commandos sought to block a convoy of tanks with parked cars. The lead tank set one of the cars afire, then rolled over a small French car, crushing it. Officials said French forces had suffered one gendarme killed and 18 other troopers wounded, including three draftees.

Initial reports on the secret army losses listed one dead and 20 severely wounded. An unknown number of other civilians were admitted to private clinics for treatment.

Authorities said more than 800 persons have been arrested in Algiers' rebellious Bab el Oued European quarter, scene of a fierce uprising last week in defiance of the cease-fire agreement between France and the nationalist rebels.

The whole quarter remained sealed off by more than 20,000 troops. But terrorists struck elsewhere in the city, and nine Moslems were reported killed and eight others wounded in various incidents.

Appeal Is Broadcast

As the violence raged, Christian Fouchet, newly appointed French high commissioner to Algeria, called on European settlers to reject the leadership of "madmen and criminals."

In an appeal broadcast a week to the day the French-Algerian cease-fire was signed, Fouchet declared from his barricaded headquarters at Rocher Noir, 30 miles east of Algiers, that unless the Europeans make peace with the Moslems "every nation on earth, practically without exception, would unite against you. You would be the first and main victims."

The secret army, apparently feeling its cause was seriously damaged by Friday's full-scale clash with French troops at Bab el Oued, served notice it would no longer fire on French soldiers "except in case of legitimate defense."

Tracts issued by the secret army told French soldiers, "Do not attack our commandos. They will not attack you." The tracts added that the secret army "wants to fight our common enemy, the Moslem National Liberation Front."

As night fell in Algiers, a powerful explosion rang across the city. The area around the government building was plunged into darkness.

Auguste Piccard, 78, Stratosphere, Ocean Depths Pioneer, Dies

LAUSANNE, Switzerland (AP)—The next year sent it up to more than 53,000 feet. Prof. Auguste Piccard, first to soar into the stratosphere and first to plumb the great ocean depths, died Sunday of a heart attack. He was 78. In a balloon gondola of his own design, he had soared more than 10 miles upward. And in a steel ball he and his son fashioned he had gone down two miles beneath the sea. Active to the last and appearing to be in good health, he was at work on a new diving ship designed to take off from his son Jacques when death struck. The Swiss scientist began his search work with balloons in the 1920s, studying cosmic rays, the mysterious high-energy rays from space. He made 15 balloon ascensions before 1927. In that year, at the request of Albert Einstein, he made a balloon ascension of more than two miles and confirmed some aspects of the famed German scientist's theory of relativity. An inventor as well as a scientist, Piccard made his own pressurized aluminum gondola for his first challenge of the stratosphere in 1931. While that ascent reached 52,000 feet, a height never approached previously by man, it came near ending in disaster. Control trouble developed in the gondola as it was borne swiftly aloft by an enormous balloon, and for a time he was locked in the stratosphere unable to ascend or descend. Scientists on the ground feared he would perish in the thin upper atmosphere, but he maneuvered his space craft back to earth, and night.

Kennedy Heads Back To Capital

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (UPI)—President Kennedy spent a leisurely Sunday in the hot desert sun before an overnight jet flight back to Washington.

The Chief Executive, who has been resting here since Friday night, planned to take off from Palm Springs at 11 p.m. PST (2 a.m. EST). The flying White House will stop at March Air Force Base about 55 miles from here for re-fueling, then head for the east coast shortly after midnight.

Russian Girl Offers Eyes To Blind U.S. Red

MOSCOW (AP)—A Soviet girl student has offered her eyes to Henry Winston, blind former secretary of the U.S. Communist party. Pravda reported Sunday Winston, the Communist party paper said, declined the offer with thanks. He said his blindness is due to nervous exhaustion rather than any defect in his eyes. "The cruel, heartless, deliberately inhuman regime in American jails is responsible for it," he added. The girl, Roza Shafagulina, is a student at the foreign languages school in Tomsk, Pravda said. Winston came to the Soviet Union last fall for rest and medical treatment after serving a jail term in the United States for contempt of court.

Jackie Meets Famous Camel Driver, Takes Ride Side Saddle In Tight Skirt

KARACHI, Pakistan (AP)—Jacqueline Kennedy met Bashir Ahmad, Pakistan's most celebrated camel cart driver, and went for a ride Sunday on his camel—side saddle in a tight skirt. "It makes an elephant feel like a jet plane," said America's First Lady afterward. And she should know, because she rode an elephant in India. At her own request, she met Bashir, Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson's friend. She gave him a personal letter from the vice president, who met the camel driver on an Asian tour and had him visit the United States. Mrs. Kennedy said she was naturally tired from her two-week tour of India and Pakistan but expects to recuperate quickly when she returns to Washington next week after three days in London. She leaves for London Monday.

It had been a hectic day for Mrs. Kennedy. Hardly had America's First Lady arrived from Peshawar in the north than a fierce sand storm blew up, and many of the thousands who lined the route of her motorcade from the airport couldn't see her for the dust. Riding in an open car, Mrs. Kennedy had to cling tight to her pink beret-like cap to keep it from sailing off with the wind. Then she was 30 minutes late for a wreath-laying ceremony at the tomb of Mohammed Ali Jinnah, Pakistan's founder. This was just as well, because the wind knocked down one of the memorial awnings just before she got to the tomb. Some of them, like Charles A. Eickhart of Butztown, a suburb near Philadelphia, had never been to four children.

This part of the coast before. "I thought that in case something like this happened up home, I know how they'd feel," Eickhart said when asked why he volunteered. She had been delayed because her baggage had not arrived at the presidential guest house from the airport. Bashir Ahmad wanted to meet Mrs. Kennedy because he missed her when he visited the United States as the guest of Johnson last year. Johnson, who had befriended Bashir on a visit to Pakistan, had given the camel driver a pickup truck. Bashir was waiting at the presidential house when she returned after laying the wreath at the tomb. And he had brought his old camel, not his truck. Also he brought his wife and three of their children.

CRC Will Probe Racial Aspects Of D. C. Housing

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Civil Rights Commission said Sunday it will examine racial aspects of housing in the nation's capital—the only major American city where Negroes form a majority of the population.

The formal announcement didn't say so, but it appears obvious the public hearings April 12-13 will go into the difficulties of some foreign diplomats, especially those from African countries, in finding suitable homes.

In addition to quizzing real estate developers, bankers, civic groups and others, the commission investigators are reported also to have asked State Department officials to testify.

Staff Director Berl I. Bernhard said, "Washington, D.C., is the nation's capital and, in a sense, the capital of the free world. The achievement of true equality of

Romney Raps JFK, Goldberg Steel Moves

WASHINGTON (AP) — George Romney said Sunday that President Kennedy and Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg have exceeded their authority in efforts to ward of a steel strike.

Romney, on leave from the presidency of American Motors to seek the Republican nomination for governor in Michigan, said Kennedy and Goldberg are trying to interpret for themselves what is in the national interest.

Kennedy has publicly prodded management and the United Steelworkers Union toward a settlement. Goldberg has worked behind the scenes with the same objective.

As the man who was first to reach an agreement with the United Auto Workers last fall, Romney said he thinks it is wrong that "in the postwar period there hasn't been a single collective bargaining settlement in the steel industry that hasn't been made in the White House."

Appearing on a television interview taped for New York stations with Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., Romney said: "This is wrong because it will ultimately lead to government determination of wages and prices."

Stimulant Pill Free Of Side Effects Near

WASHINGTON (AP) — Science may be close to developing a pill that's free of serious side effects, it was reported Sunday.

Dr. Charles F. Howell of Lederle Laboratories, Pearl River, N.Y., said tests with animals indicate that a newly developed chemical, called thozalimone, is "especially promising as a highly effective new stimulating agent, without serious side effects."

"It is now being readied for testing in man," he said in a report released by the American Chemical Society on the eve of the second week of its 141st national meeting.

While a number of stimulant pills already are available in medicine, they can produce undesirable reactions — such as excessive nervousness and even hallucinations — and they can lead to addiction unless their use is carefully supervised.

Workers End Strike

BALTIMORE (AP) — Some 350 workers who walked off their jobs at the Eastern Stainless Steel Corp. last week returned to work Sunday.

A spokesman said the workers, all members of the U. S. Steel workers Union Local 1245, voted earlier Sunday to end the strike.

Fidel's Brother Given New Post

HAVANA (UPI) — The Cuban government of Prime Minister Fidel Castro Sunday created the post of vice-prime minister and named Castro's brother, Raul, to fill it.

A government announcement said Raul will retain his posts as armed forces minister and second secretary of the national secretariat for the 25-man national board of the Integrated Revolutionary Organizations (IRO).

It was the third major political reshuffling announced in the past week. Raul was named IRO's second secretary last Thursday in the same announcement which named Fidel its first secretary.

Never before has Cuba had a vice-prime minister and the reasons for the post's creation were not immediately known.

Harriman Wins New Laos Talks

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — W. Averell Harriman made some progress Sunday in getting the three warring factions of Laos to confer once more and try to bring peace to the troubled country.

The assistant secretary of state for Far Eastern affairs said he had impressed on the royal government that the United States supports the plan for a coalition regime under neutralist Prince Souvanna Phouma.

Just before Harriman boarded a plane for Bangkok, Deputy Premier Phoumi Nosavan informed him Souvanna is coming to Vientiane Monday at King Savang Vathana's invitation to resume consultations.

The strongman of the royal government, Phoumi has been Souvanna's chief antagonist. He has expressed fear a government under Souvanna would eventually land Laos in the Communist camp.

Whether the new talks will get anywhere is a question. The state minister for presidential affairs, Sisouk Nachampassak, told reporters differences are still deep between the royal government and the United States, adding: "We still maintain that Souvanna Phouma should not be given the defense and interior portfolios."

This is the issue that has blocked previous negotiations. Harriman told a news conference the United States still believes the two key positions should go to Souvanna.

79 Awarded Degrees

TOKYO (AP) — The University of Maryland awarded bachelor of science and arts degrees Sunday to 79 graduates of its University College program in the Far East in commencement exercises held at Tokyo's Kudan Hall.

The 1962 graduates, consisting of 60 U. S. military personnel and 19 civilians, bring to 261 the total number of students awarded degrees since the university's Far East program was established in 1956.

Weekend Auto Mishaps In Md. Claim 10 Lives

By The Associated Press

Ten persons died in Maryland traffic accidents over the weekend. One was killed and 11 injured in a single smashup late Saturday night.

The deaths raise the state's 1962 highway fatality toll to 89—16 more than on this date a year ago.

The victims:

George P. Montgomery, 49, Baltimore Frederick F. Widener, 36, Baltimore; Edmund S. Majchrzyk, 37, Washington; Clarence A. Hutchinson, 25, Seabrook, Md.; Harold J. Martin, 40, Relay (Anne Arundel County), Md.; Elmer L. Rigsby, 25, Baltimore; Richard E. Mitchell, 15, Prince Georges County; James Brooks, 63, Oxon Hill, Md.; Abney Glenn Perry, 37, Sumter, S. C., and Pvt. Joseph A. Clark, Brunswick, Md.

At Jessup, Md., in Anne Arundel County, two carloads of six persons each collided head-on on Md. 175. Hutchinson was killed and 11 others injured.

Two of those hurt were listed in critical condition at a Baltimore hospital. They are Thomas Leckas, 14, Seabrook, a passenger in the Hutchinson car, and Harry McIver, 30, Baltimore, who was riding in a car driven by Robert Lee Davis, 23, Baltimore.

Montgomery was killed when the car he was driving collided head-on with another automobile on U. S. 40 at the intersection of Joppa Road in Harford County.

Injured were John Singletary, 24, Philadelphia, the driver of the other car, and Jack T. Blenhyne, 32, Philadelphia, a passenger.

Police said Montgomery was driving east in the wrong lane when the collision occurred.

Widener died when the car he was driving smashed into the rear of another automobile parked on the Washington-Baltimore Expressway.

State Police said the parked car belonged to Venerable Dewey Wilson, 43, Baltimore, who had just been involved in another accident and was unable to move his car.

Police said the dome lights on the squad cars were burning and troopers were lighting flares when the accident happened.

The Powder Kegs Of Latin America

Fires of revolt are smoldering all over Latin America with little needed to make some of them burst into flame. In Latin America it is axiomatic that "whoever controls the army sleeps in the palace."

The army threw Juan Peron out of Argentina in 1955. The military now nullifies provincial elections where Peronists gained a majority in the House of Deputies. A Peron-backed governor was selected in Buenos Aires province, the country's largest and seat of the national capital.

Arturo Frondizi, elected Argentine President in 1958 in an army-supervised election, has two years of his term to go. Only the military can keep him in office or prevent a dissident majority from removing the "fugitive from justice" label on Peron. That would allow Peron to return and campaign personally.

In Guatemala a three-party anti-Communist coalition seeks army and other support to turn out President Ydigoras. He is a conservative, but student riots, coupled with Castroite intervention, build toward a crisis. Only the military can stabilize the situation. It is reported still backing the government, but quick changes have occurred before.

In Brazil the return of former President Quadros from self-imposed exile poses many questions. If nothing else it adds to unrest. Economic conditions are worsening. Communist activity is open and strong in several large provinces.

In Peru actual and incipient revolt of the landless has been held in check temporarily by the military.

These Days

Jackie's Trip

One task at which the United States has not been too successful has been world-wide propaganda. Until Khrushchev's boasts and blusterings shocked the world, the Russians had it much their own way and peoples in distress, even when aided by the United States, turned to the greener pastures of the Kremlin for hope and improvement. Soviet Russia, the most imperialist of nations, gives the impression of being the advocate of angelic peace, whereas the United States, which would not even blow up the Bay of Pigs, has become the votary of war.

It has been shocking to our people that we, who can make bubble-gum palatable and who can glorify cosmetics until the natural bloom of a woman's face or the beauty of her hair is lost under pounds of falsifiers, do not know how to tell the truth about ourselves effectively. As propagandists, our advertising agencies and our public relations counsels are flops.

The Indian trip of Mrs. John F. Kennedy, the President's wife, has proved something very important. It has established that all the world loves beauty, particularly in the natural flowering of a young woman, that good manners and gentleness and proper address are attractive wherever one sees it. It may or may not be useful to influence neutral governments, but it is always advantageous to be loved by great masses of people. If we can afford to do anything, we can afford to send this particular President's wife, who speaks many languages and who is so flexible in her relations with strange people, to many countries.

We have been painted to all the world as crass materialists; yet we have here the best, or if that citation is given to LaScala, the second best, opera house in all the world; we have more and better museums; more and better symphonies; and so one goes on, but these accomplishments are hardly noted. Mrs. Kennedy is an artist and when she goes among artistic people she can hold her own and she does not give the impression of having lived a crude, materialistic life. In Europe and Asia, her cultural attainments strengthen the United States.

I have read the criticisms of her trip and they make two general points:

1. It costs money.
2. Why send the President's wife? Why not send someone from the State Department or from Congress?

As to the money, what this trip costs is peanuts compared to what we spend on propaganda for our country that hardly scratches the surface; the impression Jackie is making seems to cut deep, because she does what the people of India like to have their visitors do. And whatever she does, is done gracefully.

As to why the President's wife should be sent, the answer is that she fits the job. Lots of folks, including myself, often have had much to say about Eleanor Roosevelt because we did not like her politics, but in her day, she managed to win the good-will of a great mass abroad. This can be said with assurance, Jackie Kennedy is not likely to put her spoon in the boiling kettle of international relations. She will talk about art, furniture, dresses, architecture — subjects she knows as well as anyone. And she may have a good word to say about Caroline and mothers who bring children into the world. And it is this kind of thing that the younger intellectuals, who usually abuse this country, like to talk about.

Why send the President's wife and not Mrs. Joe Doakes? Obviously, Mrs. Doakes would not carry the day, but we could send a team of American artists from the Met, led by an American conductor, with an all-American orchestra. Or we could send those who came here as refugees from one country or another and who found here the land of opportunity. Or we could send such members of Congress who can explain in European and Asiatic universities how our government works, because even the most educated do not understand our system of checks and balances, and the rights of the individual over the government.

We have a job to do and let's do it as perfectly as we can without cavil. Jackie Kennedy seems to be doing well at this job. Let her next go to Spanish-speaking countries where she can address the peoples in their own tongue.

'I'm Your Representative In Argentina'

Farm Bill May Be 'Sleeper' In JFK's Program

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON — The sleeper in the Kennedy legislative program may well turn out to be the farm bill, which the Senate Committee on Agriculture has just begun to mark up.

The bill has been generally ignored for two different but related reasons. On the one hand, the American government's farm policy is generally regarded as a hopeless mess, beyond improvement or remedy.

On the other hand, the House and Senate Committees on Agriculture are generally regarded as hopeless congeries of special interest-partisans, unwilling to consider any remedy or improvement. In recent years, there have been good grounds for both these assessments.

But the new farm bill is a bold measure, which really does seem likely to tidy up the worst of the farm policy-mess if it can only be reported from the two committees and approved by the Congress. The guts of it is a determined attack on the gigantic problem of stored surpluses.

This means that the guts of the bill is the part concerned with wheat and feed grains, such as corn; for these crops are the main cause of the immense and ever-growing surpluses. At present, the government has on hand no less than 3 billion bushels of corn and 1.4 billion bushels of wheat. The mere storage of these wheat and feed grain surpluses now costs the taxpayer the astronomical sum of $700 million a year.

The device proposed is to extend to wheat and feed grains a strict but democratically based system of production controls. There is no theoretical innovation in this. The Southern crops, cotton, tobacco, and peanuts, have long been subject to strict production controls, which have regularly been approved by overwhelming vote of the cotton, peanut, and tobacco producers. Two-thirds is the required majority, but it has been greatly surpassed in every year since the war.

The only practical innovation, in fact, will be to bring the wheat and feed grain producers under the same system as the cotton, tobacco, and peanut farmers. Very great savings in storage and other costs will then result from gradual elimination of existing surpluses.

Because of these savings, the taxpayer will save money, though farm income will be maintained, both by support prices and by payments to farmers whose land has been taken out of use by the production restrictions. Continuation of the existing arrangements, on the other hand, is estimated to cost the taxpayer $1 billion a year of extra outlay every year for the next five years. The mess will be completely out of hand, in other words, unless something drastic is done about it this year.

The credit for trying to do something about it must go mainly to Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman. The farm bill is his handiwork, with assists from his technical staff, from Under Secretary Charles Murphy, and that rather unlikely new farm expert, Presidential Assistant Meyer Feldman.

To these men, the President has deputed the right of final judgment in an area where he has decidedly limited confidence in his own judgment. But Freeman's real achievement has been working with the members of the ordinarily resistant House and Senate Committees on Agriculture.

The truth is that in his own legislative bailiwick, Freeman has made as good an impression as any member of the present Cabinet, and a bitter impression that the dim depths of the remotest past. By hard coordinated work by Freeman and representatives of the White House, the mood of the two committees has been gradually changed. Favorable committee reports on the guts of the farm bill now seem quite likely.

The prospective majorities, if they materialize at all, will certainly be paper thin. The dairy sections of the farm bill will have to be jettisoned or greatly altered, in order to secure majority approval of the rest of the bill. All this, if it is finally accomplished, will have to be accomplished in the very teeth of the envenomed opposition of the Farm Bureau Federation.

But there really seems to be a chance to pass a bill which will halt the seemingly resistless trend towards sinking deeper and ever deeper into the surplus-morass. If the country one day discovers that the surpluses are shrinking while farm income is holding up, the impression will be powerful—and not limited to the farm belt.

Whalley Puts Bedford, Somerset Co. Republicans On Public Payroll

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Congressman J. Irving Whalley of Windber, Pa., has a unique and interesting record. While contributing to many worthwhile charities, he also seems to think that the U.S. government is something of a charitable institution.

He pays about $30,000 a year of the taxpayers money to people who don't work in his Washington office, including one Pennsylvania newspaper editor who gets $6,000 and three local GOP officials.

Congressman Whalley, a genial soul, is replacing one of the top Republican members of the House of Representatives, the late Dick Simpson. Whalley is a banker, auto dealer, and one of the wealthier members of Congress. He doesn't hesitate to dig down in his pocket for worthy causes and recently contributed $10,000 for basketball equipment for the youngsters back home.

He is also not averse to digging into Uncle Sam's pocket to pay a large office payroll. While he is entitled to a Congressional payroll those who draw Uncle Sam's money are required to work for it by doing jobs in Washington for the voters back home. They are not paid to promote publicity for a Congressman or help him get re-elected.

On Congressman Whalley's payroll, however, is an interesting assortment of salary-drawers seldom if ever seen around his Washington office. They include:

Olin Horton, an editor of the Broadtop Bulletin of Saxton, Pa., who is hardly ever seen in Congress, yet is carried on Whalley's payroll at $6,000 a year.

Clark W. Rodger of Hooversville, Pa., Republican chairman of Somerset County, who gets the top salary in Whalley's office of $10,260 a year. This is considered a sure way to get GOP re-election support.

Robert A. Evans, Republican chairman of Franklin County, who gets $4,200 a year, which should insure GOP support in that county.

Alvin C. Walker, former GOP chairman of Snyder County, who receives $4,000 annually from the taxpayers. This should be a help in keeping Snyder County behind Whalley.

This isn't all. Whalley has still another employee, Gilda Lesko, who is paid $4,800 for not working in Washington, though she reportedly does work at Whalley's "district" office at Windber, Pa.

It's nice work if you can get it, but some Pennsylvanians in areas which are depressed wish that Congressman Whalley would have more of a staff working in Washington to promote business for Western Pennsylvania.

Gen. Le May Obeys
Gen. Curtis Le May, the cigar-chomping air force chief, gave his staff gruff orders last week not to carry on an undercover campaign against civilian leaders for the B-70 bomber.

Secretary of Defense McNamara had privately accused the Air Force of lobbying behind his back for the supersonic bomber. While he didn't question Le May's loyalty, he felt that some of Le May's subordinates were working against their civilian chiefs. Le May demanded to know who, but McNamara offered no names.

So the gruff Air Force chief told subordinates sternly that they had better not play any undercover politics. He insisted that the Air Force views on the B-70 should be stated only to the proper committees of Congress. He also ridiculed rumors that he would resign if he lost the fight of the B-70.

As a soldier, he said, he would accept the verdict and obey the orders of his civilian superiors. Troops For Vietnam

There won't be any public announcement, but the U.S. Army is secretly recruiting volunteers from the two American divisions now stationed in Korea, to fight in South Vietnam.

Several dozen infantry and intelligence specialists have already been signed up. Theoretically, they are supposed to train South Vietnamese soldiers in anti-guerrilla tactics. Their instructions, however, are to teach by example in actual combat.

Several American fighting men have already parachuted into the jungle with South Vietnam forces. John McCormack Grips Speaker John McCormack has complained privately that it's not his fault, but Kennedy's, that the House of Representatives is becoming unrepresentative.

The Speaker told friends that the House simply won't accept the Kennedy program, yet he can't get the President to set minimum goals and say what compromise legislation he'll settle for. McCormack charged grumpily that Kennedy is more interested in making a political record than in passing bills. Many Congressmen complain, however, that it's McCormack's poor leadership that is responsible for the snafu in Congress. Headlines And Footnotes

Sen. Maurice Neuberger of Oregon, whose husband died of cancer, is planning to introduce a bill to raise cigarette taxes as a deterrent to cancer.

The American Medical Association spent more than $163,000 last year, chiefly in advertising, to kill President Kennedy's bill for medical care of the aged.

Congratulations to "The Rotarian" magazine for its fine job in promoting people-to-people diplomacy. One contributor, Father Bruckberger, the French-Dominican priest who is an admirer of the United States, wrote: "The greatest fault you Americans have is the inability to make yourself known for what you are." The Arlington, Va., Kiwanis Club is making a different kind of contribution to America's space effort—fertilizing astronaut John Glenn's lawn free of charge.

Jim Bishop Reporter

By Jim Bishop

BANGKOK, Thailand — Most people think of this as The King-and-I country. It is, but it is much more than tinkling temple bells and maidens holding one foot in the air while the head darts from side to side. Much more. It is a nation of 25,500,000 oriental people—the friendliest I have ever known.

I think of them as Siamese, even though they have changed the name of the country. They appear, to western eyes, to be pale Chinese, although they do not like this description and insist that they never were Chinese. Perhaps. But their forebears came from south China and Hainan Island, and those places have been Chinese since the dawn of time.

This hotel is called the Oriental. It is the only one in Bangkok situated on the Chao Phraya River. The original part of it was built in 1895 and, with its inner courts and palm trees and tiles, looks like something out of Kipling. The river flows crookedly down to the Gulf of Siam and is the color of coffee with milk in it.

Most of the people here—the old natives—live on the Chao. They live on sampans, old houseboats with curving tin tops, barges, and in homes which squat on the river banks on stilts. There are a million of them and there are a million others who live in modern Bangkok, a city of roads and traffic cops in white shorts and motorized rickshaws.

The old city—the part which interests me—looks like a crossword puzzle of canals. These are called Klongs. Each one is about 30 feet wide and joins all of the others. Schoolboys pick up the children at 8:30 each morning and sail them to school: the girls in blue middle blouses and the boys in khaki shorts and shirts.

Politeness and consideration, almost synonymous, are what the Siamese have to offer. It is more than enough. Kelly and I took a boat ride up and down the Klongs and, every time we passed a small child on a houseboat or sampan, the youngster would smile, press the palms of his hands together under his chin, and bow. This is hello in Thailand. Mrs. Jack Sullivan learned to say: "So Wat Dee," which is "good morning" and this made the little ones giggle. In fact, everyone in Siam giggles. Everything here appears to be funny.

Early this morning we took a boat to the floating market, which is bedlam on the Klong. All the business sampans and barges appear on the same canal at the same time each morning to stock up on vegetables, meat, charcoal, household wares—even jungle orchids—and the boats were pressed gunwale to gunwale for a mile.

No one was angry. Men on the bows of little high-sterned Chinese boats talked softly to other boat owners in the way, Siamese women, who wear a wrap-around skirt, a cotton blouse and nothing else except bare feet, man the sweep oars at the stern. The baby swings from a cradle on a beam aft. The children play on deck.

The middle part of the boat is laden with either dewy green peppers, mangos, bananas, ruddy radishes or romaine. Some boat owners talked sing-song to others and sold them thin strips of beef held over a brass brazier on the bow. Flowers adorn the front of all boats, all homes. Most of the houses are unpainted, and look like shacks, but the jungle flowers and ferns are in pots everywhere.

The mothers bring the children down to the edge of the Klong early and bathe them, then bathe themselves, keeping only the skirt on, and then wash the clothes on a dock or a step of a little dock. Almost all of the people here are Buddhists, and they are most religious. Their Temple of the Reclining Buddha has a statue of their prophet close to 150 feet long.

The boxers come into the ring and get on their knees and bow and pray to Buddha before the bell rings. Then, in Siamese style, they not only clout each other with fists, but kick each other with feet. We saw two battlers and the referee hit the deck four times in one fight.

When a stranger enters a store, he is not only greeted with the biggest, most enduring smiles, but often the clerks will buy Coca-Cola for all hands, or a cup of Turkish coffee. If the customer doesn't buy anything, he still rates a big smile and a formal farewell.

It is as though all the people were on happy pills. Beneath this hotel window, I watch a woman man a tiny ferryboat. She takes passengers across the Chao Phraya with but one oar. She holds it in the stern, and takes a step forward with each step. Then she moves back a step, without taking the blade from the water, and does it again.

She works long hours. She speaks no English, so I could learn nothing from her. She just bows and smiles, and starts another trip across. The temperature is 93. Still, she smiles. Kelly watched her for awhile and said, "She must have back muscles like King Kong."

Baldness In Women Usually Is Temporary

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Is baldness becoming more common in women? Some authorities say no, whereas others note a sharp increase (up to 10 times) among otherwise healthy women. If severe hair loss is occurring more frequently, it won't show because women will do their best to keep it hidden.

Baldness in women generally begins on top of the head. At first there is thinning but when the shiny scalp begins to show, and it is obvious what is happening, many of the ladies panic. There is no need to go off the deep end because baldness in women usually, though not always, is temporary.

Though we know of many reasons why the hair falls out, the exact cause is unknown. A number of chemical and mechanical factors are thought to be responsible for the current crop of baldies.

Cold wave solutions can act as depilatories unless they contain a neutralizer. Certain additives to shampoos such as detergents, foaming agents, perfumes, and coloring substances are responsible in others. Use a liquid soap shampoo without these additives when extensive hair loss is noted. Rinses, dyes, sprays, waves and hairsets may be used unless there is a reason to suspect one of these products.

Shampoo frequently to keep the scalp clean and reduce oiliness. But avoid overmanipulation, too frequent dyeing, and bleaching. Brushing the hair is good for the scalp but take it easy.

Brush rollers and the pony tail style also create unusual pull on the individual tufts. Discontinue these devices or coiffures if shedding has begun.

Hereditarily may play a major role because many of these women have a family history of the same condition. Perhaps they have inherited hair that can't take much abuse. A temporary reduction in female sex hormones is blamed when the condition follows pregnancy or during the menopause.

Treat the scalp gently. The hair thrives when the person is healthy and physically fit. Keep fit, get enough sleep, and eat a balanced diet.

Dr. Van Dellen will send leaflet on care of the hair and scalp if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

FEARS SURGERY

Mrs. K. writes: Is it true that it is not good to be operated upon during the change? My doctor says I need a hysterectomy but I fear the dangers of an operation while going through the change.

REPLY
Emotions may be a problem during the change of life but let's look at it this way: Have the operation if it is an emergency or your health will suffer if it is not done in the next two years. If not ask for a delay until you are ready emotionally. If there is any question about the need for surgery, visit a good gynecologist.

T.Y.ROIDITES

M. J. writes: I have inflammation of the thyroid and am taking pills. Will I have to be operated on for this swollen gland?

REPLY

Not as a rule unless the gland is abscessed or becomes necrotic. Surgery may be needed later if the swelling does not subside.

DIABETES AFTER SURGERY

A latent case of diabetes often comes to light following stroke, pneumonia, accidents, or operations. There is a possibility also that tests for this disease were not done until the stroke occurred.

Anxious to know the exact meaning of "public relations," a student went straight to the horse's mouth: Mr. Ben Sonnenberg, generally considered the smartest public relations expert extant. His explanation was this: "Let us take a young man, vice president of an important bank. He comes from a socially prominent family. Its family escutcheon has always been glittering bright but our young man has tarnished it somewhat. He has been divorced twice, runs around with a fast set, and his name has been popping up in the scandal and gossip columns. What I do for him is simple: I blow the dust off his escutcheon and make it glitter again!"

Why so many farmers and ranchers plant money in U.S. Savings Bonds

Stop by a county seat bank any Saturday morning and you'll find farmers and ranchers at the Savings Bond window.

Ever since the Savings Bond Program began, these folks have been among its best customers. In fact $\frac{1}{3}$ of all cash reserves owned by U.S. farmers and ranchers is invested in U.S. Savings Bonds.

Bonds for Business

Bonds owned by the millions of people who run our farms have their work cut out for them. They replace machinery. Pay for new land. Provide insurance against the risks of farming.

They get personal assignments, too, like replacing the old homestead, sending the kids to college, and making life more comfortable when the tractor lumbers into the barn for the last time.

Why they keep U.S. Bonds "down on the farm"

U.S. Savings Bonds are a "crop that never fails," guaranteed by the U.S. Government to grow. $18.75 becomes $25 in 7 years, 9 months. In 10 more years, it becomes $36.25. They can be cashed in anytime, with interest. And if they're lost or destroyed, the Treasury Department replaces them free.

Every U.S. Bond you buy is an investment in Peace. What better way to help your government help you enjoy the things you're saving for?

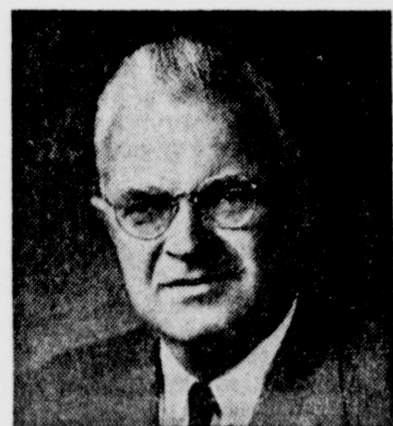

Why America's Prominent Farm Groups Support The Savings Bond Program

James G. Patton, President, National Farmers Union, says: "Savings Bonds are an excellent means of providing for a family's security, and will continue to be a part of our efforts toward a better agriculture and a stronger nation."

Chas. B. Shuman, President, American Farm Bureau Federation, says: "Farmers have always been strong supporters of The Savings Bond Program. Their current investment of $5 billion is a tribute both to their thrift habits and to Bonds."

Herschel D. Newsom, Master, The National Grange, says: "Savings Bonds are an investment in America. Farmers—like all Americans—buy them, assured that they are making an indestructible investment."

You save more than money with U.S. Savings Bonds

Buy them where you work or bank

For 20 years America's newspapers have published Savings Bonds ads at no cost to the Government. The Treasury Dept. is grateful to The Advertising Council and this newspaper for their patriotic support.

Area College Baseball Teams Will Open Campaign On Friday

Hagerstown Team Hosts Frostburg

Bobcats To Play 14 Games; Montgomery Opposes Potomac

College baseball teams of the tri-state area are slated to launch their 1962 campaigns on Friday when Frostburg State Teachers College and Potomac State College play games at Hagerstown and Takoma Park, Md.

Coach Harold Cordts' Frostburg Bobcats will oppose Hagerstown Junior College in the Hub City at 2:30 p. m., while Coach John Fox's Catamounts of Keyser face Montgomery Junior College in a doubleheader in Montgomery county. The Frostburg-Hagerstown game has been moved up from Saturday.

Potomac and Frostburg State play their home openers next week. The Catamounts host Mount Union College, of Alliance, Ohio, Wednesday, April 4, while the Bobcats entertain Altoona Campus of Penn State Thursday, April 5. Coach Fox has lined up a 20-game card for Potomac State and Frostburg has planned a 14-game schedule.

Frostburg State is hopeful of holding an outdoor drill today. Coach Cordts has a squad of about 20 players, including ten letter winners of the 1961 team which won two and lost six.

The Bobcats' infield will comprise George Lauder at first base; Ted Femi, who played at Potomac State last season, second base; Ronnie Mann, shortstop, and Don Nave at third base. John Nusser appears to be slated for the catching role and "Hank" Winner is certain to start in the outfield. Coach Cordts is undecided on the other outfield positions. George Kuhn and Don Hurvitz are the holdover pitchers.

Frostburg will play home-and-home games with Hagerstown, Altoona Campus, D. C. Teachers, Shenandoah, Potomac State and Shepherd and single games with Lynchburg and Montgomery Junior College.

Cincy's Hogue Is Named MVP

Sparkles In 71-59 Win Over Buckeyes

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI)—Paul Hogue was selected Sunday as most valuable player in the 1962 National Collegiate basketball championships—an honor that couldn't be denied the big Cincinnati center after he led the Bearcats to their second straight national title Saturday night.

Hogue drove home 22 points, pulled in 19 rebounds, and limited three-time All-America Jerry Lucas to 11 points as Cincinnati crushed Ohio State, 71-59, in the championship game.

The burly, bespectacled 6-10 center, whose home is Knoxville, Tenn., received 75 of the 78 votes cast by newsmen who covered the finals, and was on all 88 of the ballots cast for the all-tournament team, the only unanimous selection.

Generally overlooked in All-America selections like the rest of his Cincinnati teammates, Hogue was trailed in balloting for the All-Tourney team by Len Chappell of Wake Forest with 77 votes, Lucas with 75, Ohio State's John Havlicek with 62 and Cincinnati forward Tom Thacker with 51.

Angels' Shortstop Jim Fregosi Could Be Rookie Star Of 1962

By WALTER JOHNS
Central Press Sports Editor

PHOENIX, Ariz. — He's had only two years of minor league ball, but Jim Fregosi, a well-respected shortstop prospect in the Los Angeles Angels' camp, has a flock of memories of baseball already.

One he likes to tell about is hitting a grand slam homer with two out in the ninth to win a game for his Alpine team in 1960, his first year in pro ball. Another is how they had to get the cops on the field to remove both the manager and himself on a disputed play also while with Alpine.

Last year he had one he wants to forget. He committed four errors in a row in one game while playing with Dallas-Fort Worth.

A mediocre hitter thus far, Fregosi, however, could be one of the rookie stars of the A. L. this season for he is a fine shortstop and comes up with a lot of blue ribbon credentials.

Around San Francisco, where he was born 19 years ago, he was an outstanding Bay area athlete, winning 11 letters at Serra High in San Mateo, all-league in baseball, football and basketball and was the California broad jump champion (23 feet, 8 inches) in track.

In football Jim averaged 150 yards a game rushing as a full-

Dayton Lands Two Berths On All-Star Team

Chmielewski, Hutton NIT Champs Chosen

NEW YORK (AP)—Sophomores Bill Chmielewski and Gordy Hutton, one providing the power and the other the zip for Dayton's National Invitation Basketball Tournament champions, were overwhelming choices for the 25th classic's all-star team.

Chmielewski, the burly 6-10 center who was the tourney's most valuable player and high scorer, was named to the team Sunday by all 25 outside sports writers who voted in the Associated Press Poll. Hutton, a 6-0 high-speed backcourt driver, was on 23 ballots. They capped a tournament-long exhibition of outstanding play at Madison Square Garden Saturday by pacing Dayton's flyers to a 73-67 triumph over favored St. John's of New York.

Another sophomore, Duquesne's fiery Willie Somerset, missed being a unanimous selection by one vote. Others picked were seniors Leroy Ellis of St. John's with 20 votes and Jack Foley of Holy Cross with 10.

Chmielewski totaled 107 points as Dayton swept by four opponents to its first NIT title, ending a runnerup jinx that saw the Flyers finish second five times in nine previous national invitations. He scored 24 against Wichita, 32 against Houston, 27 against Loyola of Chicago and 24 against St. John's. Hutton, the buzzsaw guard, had 18 points Saturday and 94 over-all.

Jerry Harkness of Loyola, 95-84 winner over Duquesne in the consolation match for third, and Colorado State's Bill Green headed the all-tourney second team with nine votes each. Rounding out the second five were Tom Hutton, Kevin Loughery of St. John's and Ron Miller of Loyola.

Essegian Belts Ball, Indians Trim Bosox

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI)—Left-fielder Chuck Essegian batted in five runs to pace the Cleveland Indians to an 8-1 victory over the Boston Red Sox Sunday and even the exhibition series between the two teams at two each.

Cugs Edge Giants

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI)—Outfielder Billy Williams hit a grand slam home run off rookie right-hander Jerry Thomas in the fourth inning Sunday to give the Chicago Cubs a 9-4 Cactus League victory over the San Francisco Giants.

The win was the third in four shots at the Giants this spring and upped Chicago's record to 9-6. The Giants fell back to 8-8.

The newly crowned champions wound up their campaign with a 22-10 record while LaSalle finished with 21-3, to give Coach George W. Gatz his fourth 20-game winner in eight years at the helm. It marked the second straight year that LaSalle lost out in the finals. Last season St. George defeated the Explorers by the score of 59-55 in the title contest.

Jim Hogarth with 19 points and seven rebounds and Dick Miasiek, who collected 18 tallies, sparked the Towson attack. The Owls outscored LaSalle 24 to 20 in field goals but the Explorers held an edge at the foul line where they meshed 23 of 32 shots to the visitors' 18-for-28.

Ted Kroll and Dave Ragan were tied at 214; Arnold Palmer and Tommy Bolt at 215.

NOTICE OF ENACTMENT OF MIDLAND CHARTER RESOLUTION
Resolution No. 1 of the Mayor and Council of the Town of Midland was passed on March 19, 1962 pursuant to the Authority of Article 11E of the Constitution of Maryland, and Article 23A and 23B of the Annotated Code of Maryland (1957 edition, as amended), to repeal in its entirety the present Charter of the Town of Midland, as enacted by the 1962 Session of the General Assembly of Maryland, Chapter 356, as amended, and to enact in lieu thereof the new Midland Charter contained in Article 23B of the Annotated Code of Maryland (1957 edition, as amended), titled "Municipal Corporation Charter," with the following exceptions:
Whereas the Model Municipal Corporation Charter provides for a Mayor and five Councilmen, with the Councilmen's terms of office being staggered;
The new Midland Charter provides for a two year residence requirement for all qualifications for all elected town officers instead of a one year residence requirement and no property qualifications as provided for in the Model Municipal Corporation Charter.
The new Midland Charter provides that the Council shall meet on the first Monday in June of each election year and at least once each month thereafter.
Whereas the Model Municipal Charter provides that no ordinance shall be passed at the meeting at which it is introduced the new Midland Charter allows an ordinance to be passed at the meeting at which introduced.
The new Midland Charter provides for the publication of a fair summary of each new ordinance in a newspaper having general circulation in the Town instead of requiring the entire ordinance to be published as is provided in the Model Municipal Charter.
Under the new Midland Charter the Mayor does not have the power of veto, and he has the power to veto on all issues coming before the Council.
Section 16.5 of the Model Municipal Charter entitled "Referendum" has been omitted in the new Midland Charter.
In order to handle all registration and election duties as provided for in the Model Municipal Charter the Town Clerk assumes all registration and election duties under the new Midland Charter.
The new Midland Charter provides for permanent registration of persons qualified to vote on the second Monday in April of every even numbered year.
Whereas the Model Municipal Charter provides for primary elections the new Midland Charter provides that the Mayor and Council shall hold "nominating meetings" before every municipal election to select candidates for all Town elective offices.
The new Midland Charter provides for municipal elections every even numbered year whereas the Model Municipal Charter provides for elections every second odd numbered year.
The new Midland Charter provides that the polls shall remain open from 1:00 until 7:00 P.M. on election days.
The new Midland Charter provides for the appointment of a separate clerk, treasurer and tax collector whereas the Model Municipal Charter provides for one person with the title of Clerk-Treasurer to perform all the duties of clerk to the Council, chief financial officer and tax collector.
The new Midland Charter provides that the books of the Town shall be audited annually by a public accountant.
Whereas the Model Municipal Charter provides for a permissive merit system the new Midland Charter makes no provision for a merit system.
Resolution No. 1 adopted March 12, 1962, unless a proper petition for referendum is filed before April 21, 1962 in accordance with the provisions of Section 13, Article 23A of the Annotated Code of Maryland (1957 edition, as amended).

Eight persons were taken to Memorial Hospital here late last night after a two-car collision in Wiley Ford.

The injured persons, residents of Potomac Park and Cumberland, were taken to the hospital by the McDonald Ambulance Service.

Reported admitted were Gerald Altizer, Ronald Varner, Gary Zembower, Ted Nave, Curtis Nesersmith and Kenneth Windle, all of RFD 5, Potomac Park, and Mr. and Mrs. Harold L. Walters, of 312 Washington Street here.

The accident occurred shortly before 10 p.m. in Wiley Ford at the intersection of Route 28 and Alternate Route 28.

Charles McDonald, manager of McDonald's Ambulance, heard the crash from his trailer in Wiley Ford, and went to the scene with one of his ambulances.

He immediately called a second ambulance from Cumberland to take the victims to the hospital here.

Mr. McDonald said he was told the boys were riding in one car and Mr. and Mrs. Walters in the second vehicle.

The Wiley Ford Volunteer Fire Company was called and washed down the highway to guard against a fire from spilled gasoline.

The hospital said several of the injured persons were released after examination and treatment, and that none of those admitted was in critical condition.

Young Altizer, Zembower, Nesersmith and Windle were listed as 17, and Varner and Nave, 15; Mr. Walters, 25, and Mrs. Walters, 17.

The accident was being investigated by Cpl. F. W. Armstrong and Trooper Robert Noechel, of the Keyser detachment of the West Virginia State Police.

Fitted With Braces

Barbara Ann Nines, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles K. Nines, 22 Greene Street, is fitted with braces at Allegany County League For Crippled Children by Bob Demison, representative of C. D. Denison and Son, Baltimore. Barbara has been a patient of the League since 1959 and has spina bifida. Eventually she will be able to walk without braces as the result of care here and at Children's Hospital, Baltimore. The League's work is supported by voluntary contributions such as the Easter Seal campaign which is in progress and ends Easter Sunday, April 22.

Little Local Girl Has Been Crippled Children League Visitor Since Early Age

Barbara Ann Nines has only been on the earth since May, 1959 but before she was four months old had undergone surgery and has been a regular visitor to the Allegany County League For Crippled Children since that time.

Little Barbara Nines who reaches birthday No. 3 May 12, is the daughter of Charles K. and Ella Nines of 22 Greene Street. She has spina bifida which has been described as spacings in the spine which affect motivation, circulation and feeling in the lower extremities.

The youngster is one of more than 1,000 who receive the benefits of expert care and treatment at the League For Crippled Children annually. Funds for this treatment come from voluntary contributions such as those being made through the annual Easter Seal Campaign which started a week ago and continues until Easter Sunday, April 22.

Barbara Nines was born with the condition and while an infant underwent surgery at Bethesda hospital. Her case history was taken at the League For Crippled Children August 11, 1959 and she has been a regular visitor since at orthopedic clinics conducted by George O. Eaton of Children's Hospital, Baltimore. She has also been seen regularly by a representative of C. D. Denison and Son who makes periodic visits here from Baltimore for the fitting of braces.

Spina bifida was diagnosed in 1960 and leg braces applied. In May, 1961 Barbara was recommended for a transplant surgical at Children's Hospital to bring her left foot more in line. The transplant was performed and her condition described as improved.

In September, 1961, Dr. Eaton recommended that a leg cast be removed and she be allowed to walk without restriction. However, it was discovered that after two or three weeks, the youngster's ankle began turning over and staves were advised. She also has had to wear a double upright bar and outside T-strap for support.

In February, it was noticed Barbara was "toeing in." To correct this a middle bar and outer wedge are being tried.

Barbara eventually will walk without braces of any kind and her prognosis at present is "good."

It will be another success story for the Allegany County League For Crippled Children, the staff, doctors, therapists, parents whose love and care have seen her through the tough early days of her life, and the voluntary contributors whose funds made it all possible.

Man Suffers Broken Leg In Tractor Upset

Carr Is Admitted To Local Hospital

An area man suffered a broken leg in a close brush with death yesterday afternoon when he was pinned beneath an overturned tractor.

The injured man, Crate Robert Carr, 45, of RFD 3, Keyser, was admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital for treatment of a fractured right leg, and was reported in good condition last night.

Mr. Carr, who lives along McMullen Highway, was injured about 3:15 p.m. when the tractor equipped with caterpillar treads upset about 150 yards off Winchester Road.

Officials said Mr. Carr was starting to turn the tractor when it hit a loose rock and rolled over against a tree.

The operator was thrown from the vehicle and fell alongside the tree, with both legs pinned beneath the treads of the tractor.

The injured man succeeded, after some time, to attract the attention of people on nearby Winchester Road.

Using two small jacks, Arthur Windemuth and Alex Struntz, both of Winchester Road, and Howard Blank, 552 McMullen Highway, extricated the injured man.

Mr. Carr was taken to Sacred Heart Hospital by the Cresaptown Volunteer Fire Company ambulance after a first aid team from the unit applied a splint to the broken leg.

Tfc. Joseph Helmstetter, assisted by Tfc. Joseph Stakem investigated for State Police.

Robert Kennedy Letter Draws Hume's Retort

Seeks Release Of Full Text

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

U. S. Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy was asked in a telegram Sunday to make public the contents of a letter he sent last January to Maryland's chief legal officer praising the State Law Department's efforts to clean up the savings and loan industry.

Democratic gubernatorial candidate David Hume made the request after Atty. Gen. Thomas B. Finan quoted parts of the letter in a political statement released Saturday through Taves for Governor Headquarters in Baltimore. Finan is running on the Taves ticket for the same office he holds now.

Later Sunday, Hume issued a statement in which he claimed Kennedy was being "used" to further the campaign cause of Taves, one of Hume's major rivals in the May 15 primary.

Kennedy Intention

"I do not believe that Robert Kennedy intended to be placed in the position of interfering with a state party primary," Hume said. "I do not believe that a cabinet officer of the United States would overlook this suffering unnecessarily visited on our citizens, particularly our older citizens."

"I find it incredible that a federal official of Mr. Kennedy's rank would willingly permit himself to be used in a whitewash maneuver for the defunct Taves savings and loan administration."

Finan said he had not intended to make public the letter dated Jan. 18, 1962, but was doing so now to "reassure the people of Maryland that responsible public officials in state and federal government are well pleased with the progress the present administration is making in enforcing the savings and loan regulatory act."

Hume and another major candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, George P. Mahoney, both have criticized Taves for tardiness in getting savings and loan controls enacted.

They also claim the criminal penalty provided in the 1961 regulatory act is inadequate. Hume called attention to this in his statement, saying there had not been "five minutes' imprisonment for the human filth who stole millions of dollars from our unprotected people."

Open Headquarters

In other political developments: 1. Mahoney and his running mates opened their Frederick County campaign headquarters Saturday in Frederick.

2. Edward T. (Ted) Miller, Republican candidate for U. S. senator, praised local and state officials for "dropping political differences during the recent storm disaster on the Eastern Shore and uniting Marylanders in one common cause—to reconstruct the disaster areas."

In a speech to more than 100 campaign workers in Frederick, Mahoney said he favored expansion of present U. S. 40 between Frederick and Hagerstown instead of building the proposed Interstate 70 at another location.

He said widening of the existing highway to four lanes would amount to a considerable saving for the state, whereas construction of a new highway would "ruin valuable local farm land."

Mahoney said he also was opposed to construction of a proposed dam on the Potomac River. "I did not think the Army Engineers have the right answer for the high water dam on the Potomac River," the candidate said.

"They have made survey after survey and still don't have a satisfactory answer as far as I am concerned. Until they prove to me the value of a high water dam at River Bend, I am opposed to this project."

Miller, a former congressman from the Eastern Shore's 1st District, said he was "proud Maryland did not wait for federal funds or assistance but immediately rallied to an emergency..." in the storm recovery program.

"Less than 24 hours after the storm broke on March 6, one-half million dollars had been assigned by the governor and less than 48 hours later the Maryland State Legislature had added another one million."

Miller also cited volunteers who contributed to the recovery effort.

B & O Ready Track Crews Mourn Loss Of "Old Sam"

By C. W. BLACKBURN
News Staff Writer

Things are not the same at the B&O ready track here, B&O workers say, since Sam is gone.

One of the mascots of the men who work on the ready track in the yards here, Sam—better known as Fusee Sam—was killed recently when he ran beneath the wheels of a moving diesel engine.

Tears were shed on his passing by the men he had loved during his two years of existence, and a poem was written and dedicated for "Old Sam," by Frederick E. Roby, Willard, Ohio, who is working here as a pipefitter.

Hundreds of men who work in the yards and the train crews who pass by to say, "where is Old Sam?" the tribute to Sam, who lived with men who work on the ready track.

A line from the poem, "We knew he'd be waiting each day and each shift," expresses the around-the-clock job Fusee Sam performed.

He was well paid with affection and choice morsels of food saved by the B & O yard and train crewmen.

The mascot received his name, "Fusee Sam," from his habit of carrying a fusee in his mouth as he walked back and forth from the ready track shanty to the pipefitters' shanty.

He liked to hand the fusee to the man and then run to pick it out of mid air.

Another of his tricks was to jump up and pull down fusees the men had stuck on poles.

Sam, the men report, would hide the fusee under a pile of rags and then snoop around until he found it and brought to the nearest worker.

After following the men all over the place as shifts changed, Sam was in the habit of retiring to one of the shanties on his route for a snooze.

He was usually dressed in the finest rags workers could find from the waste cloths used to clean diesels.

Victor M. Hebb, B & O machinist, said Sam usually wore a railroad cap and made no attempt to take off either the bonnet or the blankets of colorful waste cloth in which the men loved to dress him.

Sam came to the ready track as a pup about two years ago and was promptly adopted by the men and by Cleo, the other mascot of the ready track.

Self-Employed Tax Due April 16

Monday, April 16, is a special date on the calendar this year. Walter R. Campbell, manager of the Cumberland Social Security Office said yesterday. Since April 15 comes on Sunday, self-employed persons have an extra day to file tax returns, along with their federal income tax and report their earnings for social security.

Mr. Campbell said the report must be made if the self-employed person had a net profit of $400 or more in his business in 1961. The self-employment tax amounts to 4 1/2 per cent on the net profit. All such reports should be mailed to the Director of Internal Revenue, Baltimore 2.

By filing timely and correct reports an individual can build for himself and his family valuable protection under social security. Mr. Campbell added. He said each self-employed taxpayer should be sure to put his social security number on his tax form to insure getting proper credit.

The Social Security Office servicing this area is located at 6 Pershing Street. Mr. Campbell invites those who have questions about this, or other Social Security matters, to get in touch with his office.

Fire Prevention Conference Is Well Attended

Civic Groups Will Be Asked To Help

Eighty-five representatives from fire companies in the Tri-State area attended a fire prevention seminar sponsored yesterday by the LaVale Volunteer Fire Company.

Fire officials from as far as Winchester, Va., came to LaVale to attend the seminar, the first of its kind held in this area.

An excellent representation from the Allegany-Garrett Volunteer Firemen's Association and the Cumberland Fire Department was reported.

Albert Salvato and Edward Young, co-chairmen of the LaVale unit's Fire Prevention committee, expressed pleasure with the interest shown in the seminar.

They said the series of tragic fires which have occurred this spring in Maryland has focused attention on the need for more active fire prevention programs. The immediate result of the conference was a decision to urge all fire departments of this area to step up their fire prevention activities.

Civic groups in all communities will be enlisted in the drive to "hit the causes of fires before they start," Mr. Salvato said.

Robert C. Byrus, director of the University of Maryland Fire Service Extension, spoke on "The Importance of Fire Prevention."

Harry W. Klammer, chief of the Anne Arundel County Fire Prevention Bureau, spoke on "Application and Promotion of Fire Department and Civic Groups," and Brook Bodkin, district supervisor of the State Forestry Department, on the "Necessity of Fire Prevention in Maryland Forests."

Fire Chief James Loar extended the welcome for the LaVale Fire Company.
